The Writers Fusion mission is to develop and encourage young writers. Our goal is for every participant to have a completed, novel-length manuscript that is ready for publication. Our approach to creative writing is organic and collaborative and includes instilling a thorough understanding of the publishing process from beginning to end through a program that is a teacher-friendly, hands-on, step-by-step journey that will turn young students into accomplished writers.

“Writers Fusion is the perfect combination of great teaching and creative endeavor. Three authors with a lot of experience have found a way to encourage young writers to be more ambitious, more collaborative, more dynamic in the writing of real novels. At the same time, they have created a model of encouragement for teachers across the nation. Who says a high school student can't be a professional writer? Not these three! WF is destined to become a major national contribution to both literature and education.”
